

Claim Check Pattern

This Level 3 documentation and implementation diagram shows an example of the claim check pattern that depicts an event being published when a record is modified. The message body of the event is stored in a separate data store while the header, which contains a claim check is passed onto a subscriber. The subscriber then uses the claim check to retrieve the message body when it's ready to process the information when necessary.

